Multifunctional document software

Today's office environment is a tough place. Time is at a premium, cost pressures higher than ever and the volume of documents growing all the time. So there are sound economic reasons for maximising the efficiency of routine tasks such as printing and scanning and of more complex jobs such as device administration. Océ Intra Logic® is a web-based tool that puts office users and administrators in desktop control of the entire document workflow.

Easy administration

Enjoying effortless device management

Administering the routine office tasks of scanning and printing is easy with Océ Intra Logic. This web-based tool allows you to monitor and manage every connected device and your document workflow from your desktop. All the information you need on Océ and non-Océ devices is displayed on a single screen so you don't need to waste time running from machine to machine for counter information.

For in-depth information on the status of any device, just click onto the device icon. And if a selected printer is down or the job queue too long, a 'print to' button allows you to re-route a print job to a free device.

Profiting from simple configuration

Configuring the Océ Intra Logic server couldn't be simpler, either. You can easily add new users, administer their access rights, e.g. for printing and scanning, and allocate printers to specific groups or sites. support). All useful functions that will save you a lot of time, and your company money. To manage all your document-related issues you need just one tool: Océ Intra Logic.

Convenient scanning

Simplifying the business of scanning

Even in a modern-day office lots of information is still only available on paper. Yet most of those documents could be more conveniently stored and processed in digital form. This is where Océ Intra Logic comes in – by digitising paper information with a minimum of user intervention and ensuring the digital file is dispatched to the right destination.

This software enables users to set up their own personal Scan Mailbox as the destination for scanned documents or choose to make a document available to every Océ Intra Logic user via the 'public scan' function.

Processing scanned files with ease

Océ Intra Logic is much more than just a tool to help you scan documents. A 'send to' button allows users to choose an e-mail, archive or fax as the destination for a scanned document and an optional file-conversion function brings an added degree of convenience to the document workflow.

An optional integrated OCR solution converts scanned TIFF images into Word documents, unformatted text, Excel files or searchable PDF documents. Word documents are clearly much easier to process while searchable PDFs allow users to type in keywords to find information they need – a time-saving solution, especially with lengthy documents.

Smart printing

Boosting productivity by saving time

Océ Intra Logic puts you in total control of the printing process – from your desktop or any other PC in the firm via your personal Print Mailbox. This easy-to-use, web-based tool shows you the status of all connected Océ and non-Océ printers with in-depth information on a printer's status, paper trays and functionality only a click away.

The time-saving 'print to' function even allows jobs to be re-routed to a different printer if the selected device is occupied, down or does not offer the right paper. All benefits that will certainly save you a lot of walking time.

Reducing costs in your office operations

The Océ Professional Office Programme puts you in control of your entire office document environment. After analysing existing printing behaviour and document-related business needs, we draw up a cost-benefit analysis and propose a best-fit office document management strategy.
